

Please consider the consequences of prohibiting a broadcaster from providing very useful information to commuters. This service from XM Radio could save lives in the event of an emergency, help direct traffic, and make people's lives much easier.

It is just not in the best interest in the people, who pay hefty taxes, and are already heavily over-regulated to even further regulate them from access to vital information. I can't believe that I even have to bother typing this email, this is a disgrace to those people who fought for our freedom. How can we say to the rest of the world that the American way is right, when we institute rules and regulations that stifle the free flow of information?

I have a First Amendment right to communicate useful information, and to receive useful information. XM Radio has a First Amendment right to give useful information.

The Government and the people made an agreement that is the Constitution that our Government is to preserve, and not infringe on the rights of the people. But the Government has made regulation after regulation that only considers who is giving them the most money, and only considers the bottom line.
